

Quote 21 Creating your Reality

Whether it rains or the sun shines, whether the wind blows or all is peace, the controlling consciousness behind the outer forms is undisturbed. As you too remain calm and centered in any storm, you link up with and control all worlds. Our patterns, as expressed in the plant world, come through in perfection because they issue forth from a still center. Your purpose too can come through in perfection as you hold clearly to them, undeterred by outer events. This is law; this is the creative power given to you and to us to wield. There is chaos in the human world because every wind of chance is likely to blow you off course from your purpose. When you do hold fast to purpose, you are creative masters of the world, our brothers and sisters, ready to meet the changes that are part of life.
